In our world, there are humans who can change their outlook. They are among us. It's not easy to practice as even for one who carries this gift. They need to learn to meditate and have an understanding of anatomy. They keep their talent in secret as if the government or other gang organizations would surely use it for their wicked deeds. A young reshapener can transform into only two other bodies (one is the opposite gender) which are kind of similar color or shape of their original outlook, while experienced ones can have multiple outlooks with diverse shapes, genders, and colors. They recognize each other by a special body mark.

The ability to keep the altered shape for a long time depends on the training and experience. However, the most talented reshapeners are females.

The first pro-reshapener was a surgeon who left her luxury life to meditate in the Altai Mountains. She has spiritualist, tengrist, and kam ancestors. She established a safe headquarters for researching and teaching their unique ability.

In the city with the abundance of the cameras, the shapeshifters have to be careful. The other throwback is if a shapeshifter didn't take off their dress before the transformation, no matter the size of the outfits it will rip off.

The main focus of the story is a shapeshifting woman who is chased by a violent mafia leader. He has an unhealthy crush on her and threatens to kill her loved ones.
